RAINBOW

At the end of a rainbow a pot of gold,
Old as time,
And very cold.

First colour of the rainbow is red,
Filling me with agonising dread.

Orange, Orange,
What tommyrot fruit is not.

Now comes yellow,
And I'm quite mellow.

Next goes green,
But I am not that keen.

But what happened to dainty blue,
o' there it just flew.

Now here comes purple,
Watch out - no it's just a turtle.

Lovely pink not to vile,
But I better wait, just a while.

My oh my what a day,
And now I don't even get any pay!

The Key to Life

Thank you keyworkers the key to life,
You make us change from dull to bright
You are magnificent,
You risk your lives for us to keep ours
You are the brightest flower in the dullest field,
You change our world to make it safer,
You put away your family time
So we can have ours.
And one last thing there is no gold
At the end of rainbows it's all of you key workers.
You are the greatest
Treasure that humanity has ever had.

TO ALL OF THE KEY WORKER HEROES

We all may feel like zeros when we compare ourselves to the heroes
And the things you've done to help move us along
Are incredible and this situation getting better is inevitable.

Sometimes I sit and think about what I would say if I met you some day
But there are no words to describe how well you save lives and how we take you for granted when we're being small minded.

Finding Your Brave

Believe in yourself to do the right thing.

Respecting the rules during this difficult time.

Accepting being apart from loved ones.

Vow to stay 2 meters apart from each other.

Enjoy time with your family.

Thank You

All staff are heroes along with the dedicated volunteers

You are putting yourselves at risk for us

We are all supporting you

Windows are filled with rainbows, spreading positivity and pride

People are emotionally clapping to spread gratitude far and wide

You are forever fighting illness to help people survive

Scientists are working on vaccines

Soon you can finally rest

For now, we all hope you are safe

Covid-19

COVID 19 cannot be seen but it doesn't mean it's not there.

Life right now could be described as a small nightmare.

So please, stay indoors.

Your life is on pause.

Even Boris has COVID, as everyone knows

So please, wash, because all emergency stations are manned.

Crazy Days by Maddie

One morning when I woke
The Prime Minister had spoke
No school today
Not even in May

It was a bright day
So into the garden I went to play
I can't see my friends but that's alright
Because we can FaceTime all day and all night

These sure are crazy days as I tell you the tale
Of the day my big brother wore my ponytail
And I hope the government has a plan
As I really want to cuddle my Nan

The Key workers are brave working hard every day
To save thousands of lives throughout the UK
We clap from our windows for the work that you do

So many different professions to thank
So we say to each and all
You make us so proud you should stand very tall
Thank you all!!

you have been so kind helping people when they have the disease of covid 19

Courage is all NHS and Key worker people.

Respect need to be given for all people.

Ordinary people matter.

None of us need to feel alone.

All of us are in this together.

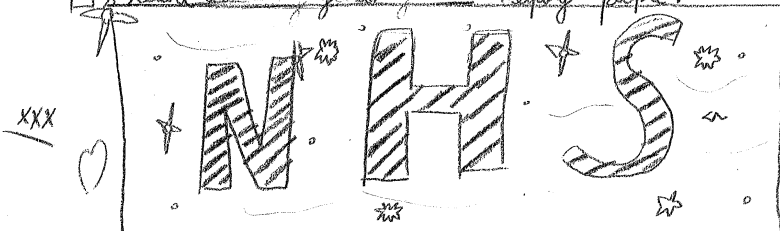

Very helpful nurses and Keyworkers.

Understanding all other people.

Respecting other people with your kindness.

Special because you are the ones who are saving lives.

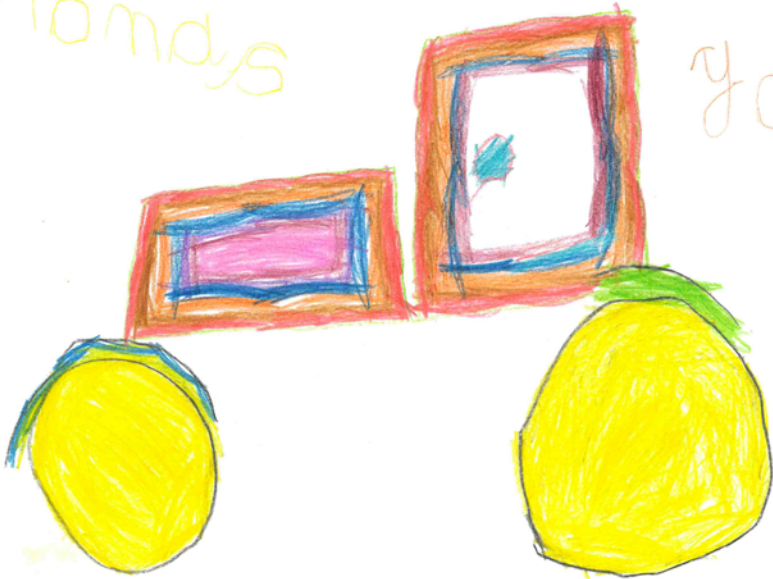

Excellent at saving lives and helping people.

Colours of the Rainbow

Blue is like a doctor's uniform, Purple is like the purple water bottle I bring to school,
Red is like the beating heart of the NHS workers,
Yellow is like a ray of sunshine,
Green is the new leaves on trees,
Orange is the satsuma inn my fruit basket

Coronavirus Days

It all began on a peaceful day,

When no one could simply say,

What the future might bring,

Then there was a crash and just like thunder,

Our tiny country has gone to blunder,

Coronavirus here and there,

Where there used to be no care,

From 1 to 4 to 8 to more, lockdown is now commencing:

Everyone is locked away in their own homes,

Parties have been cancelled,

Boredom reigns in all,

Panic buying sweeps the shops of all of their products,

Toilet paper, everyone now needs,

But now as always the NHS steps up, saving many lives:

A clap for them at 8 o'clock, murals all around,

Hooray for the NHS, for our national health service,

Our superheroes for these days and evermore,

Thank you.

Flower Rainbow

A red poppy represents the anger of the virus, it won't stop until its hit everybody, but you, NHS, are risking lives to save ours, and making sure it won't hurt others in your wake.

An orange lily keeps you safe, they're always by your side. It keeps you strong and gives you courage so stay alert and stay safe.

A yellow sunflower shines and keeps you sunny; it never breaks, like you the NHS, it perseveres.

A green zinna keeps you healthy even if you have eaten junk food. It's as green as the grass and never fails you.

A bluebell has lots of bells clapping you along to say thank you all for what you do.

A purple crocus helps you on your way, you never give up even if it's your birthday!

A pink rose as rosy as you are – our heroes.

Thank you NHS.
